DETAILED ACTION

The Preliminary Amendment to the Specification was received on February 18, 2004.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-16 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-16 of U.S. Patent No. 6,712,007. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant claims and the prior patent show railway car assembly. The prior patent shows that parts of the car are welded together by friction stir welding. The instant claims of the application show that the parts of the car are welded together and make no mention of a specific type of weld used. It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to see that the same inventions are claimed since the prior patent shows that certain parts are welded together and goes on to show a specific type of welding process used. The instant claims of the application only call for a weld to be used and therefore are encompassed by the claims of the prior patent.
